African Union-United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur

Report of the Secretary-General

I. Introduction

1. The present report is submitted pursuant to Security Council resolution 2429 \(2018\), by which the Council extended the mandate of the African Union-United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur (UNAMID) until 30 June 2019 and requested me to report every 90 days on its implementation. The report provides an update on and analysis of the conflict, the political situation and the operational environment in Darfur for the period from 11 June until 3 October 2018. It proposes benchmarks and indicators for the eventual exit of the mission, outlines the main challenges to the effective implementation of the mandate and provides an update on the progress made by UNAMID in implementing the recommendations contained in the special report of the Chairperson of the African Union Commission and the Secretary-General of the United Nations on the strategic review of UNAMID (S/2018/530).

II. Conflict analysis

2. The security situation in Darfur remained relatively stable, with the exception of intermittent clashes that continued between Government forces and the Sudan Liberation Army-Abdul Wahid (SLA-AW) mainly in the western and southern Jebel Marra area. While incidents of intercommunal conflict remained low, there was a marginal increase in the number of fatalities from the clashes, as compared with the previous reporting period. Disputes between herders and farmers, in particular internally displaced persons and returnees, over land and resources persisted. The Darfur peace process remained stalled, and the implementation of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur continued to be slow, despite ongoing efforts to revitalize the process.

Fighting between forces of the Government of the Sudan and armed groups

3. Sporadic clashes continued during the reporting period as Government forces kept up pressure on SLA-AW in an effort to eliminate its remaining elements in the Jebel Marra. At the same time, the onset of the rainy season slowed the advance of Government forces, with SLA-AW using this to conduct some counter-attacks. The Sudan Liberation Army-Minni Minawi (SLA-MM) and the Gibril Ibrahim faction of the Justice and Equality Movement (JEM-Gibril) remained inactive in Darfur. On 12 July the Government extended its unilateral ceasefire until 31 December 2018, with SLA-MM, JEM-Gibril and the Sudan Liberation Movement-Transitional Council (SLM-TC) extending their ceasefire on 8 August until 7 November 2018. SLA-AW also declared a three-month unilateral ceasefire from 20 September to 18 December 2018 to allow unhindered humanitarian access to the areas affected by landslides in the Jebel Marra.

4. Clashes were recorded along the Tarantara-Gur Lumbung axis in southern Jebel Marra, where fighting has occurred since March. From 13 to 16 June, Government forces resumed attacks on SLA-AW positions in the area, with clashes lasting for several days and leaving 16 soldiers and three SLA-AW fighters dead. Reports were received of villages being burned, civilians being injured and killed, as well as people being displaced to nearby areas, which could be only partially verified.

5. Another set of clashes took place in the areas around Golo, Central Darfur, where the continuing presence of SLA-AW elements prompted the Government to deploy additional troops on 9 July. On 19 July, SLA-AW ambushed government forces near Deba Nyra, north of Golo, killing 4 soldiers and injuring 10. On 26 July, the Sudanese Armed Forces attacked a SLA-AW position in Komi village, east of Golo, arresting suspected SLA-AW informants and subsequently firing artillery south and south-east of Golo on 30 July and 2 August. On 30 July, SLA-AW attacked government forces in Wadi Toro, Karo and Mara villages, south-east of Golo, as well as the Sudanese Armed Forces checkpoint at Sabanga on 7 August.

6. Elsewhere in the Jebel Marra, on 28 June, Government forces attacked Boulay, the main SLA-AW stronghold in northern Jebel Marra, taking control of the area by early July. Unconfirmed reports were received of Rapid Support Forces attacking and looting Kebe, South Darfur, on 27 July, allegedly targeting local support for the rebels. Five Fur civilians were reportedly killed, among them one woman, and four were injured, including one woman and two children, and an unknown number of civilians were displaced into the surrounding villages. In western Jebel Marra on 29 and 30 July, SLA-AW attacked Golol, which had recently been captured by Government forces, but was unable to regain this strategic location. On 1 August, unverified reports were received of Sudanese Armed Forces and Rapid Support Forces soldiers targeting local support for SLA-AW by assaulting residents of Tarantara, Kawara, Kaiya and Kuilla villages in southern Jebel Marra, which were taken by Government forces in May and June. On 26 August, the Government clashed once again with SLA-AW, in the Gubbo area of southern Jebel Marra, leaving one soldier and two SLA-AW fighters dead and one civilian injured. From 16 to 18 September, another encounter in Gubbo reportedly left 16 Rapid Support Forces soldiers and 6 SLA-AW dead, as well as 37 Rapid Support Forces and 5 SLA-AW injured. Civilians displaced to Kass reported that 10 civilians had been killed in the incident. From 20 to 21 September, Sudanese Armed Forces reportedly attacked SLA-AW positions in Sabun Fag, Gur Lumbung, Kuilla and Amrain South Darfur, with three SLA-AW members killed and one injured.

Militias

7. Attacks against civilians by nomad militiamen in and around Jebel Marra continued alongside the fighting between government forces and SLA-AW. The Northern Rizeigat nomads reportedly continued to harass internally displaced persons and farmers in the Thur area of western Jebel Marra. Incidents were reported of a group of farmers being assaulted and robbed by nomads on horseback south-east of Nertiti on 27 August and of militiamen and Rapid Support Forces personnel assaulting an internally displaced person in Thur on 5 September for alleged support for SLA-AW. At the same time, militias were accused of having participated in attacks by government forces targeting local villagers perceived to be SLA-AW supporters.

Intercommunal conflicts

8. The number of incidents of intercommunal violence remained low, with fewer occurrences as compared with the previous reporting period. There were six reported intercommunal clashes over land and livestock theft, which resulted in 18 fatalities, compared with eight clashes and 20 fatalities from 16 February to 10 June 2018, as covered in S/2018/389 and S/2018/612. The concerted engagement of State authorities, local leaders and security apparatus contributed to minimizing the escalation of potential security situations.

9. Despite the reported marginal decrease in the number of clashes and fatalities, the reporting period saw an increase in tensions between herders and farmers over land and resources, especially in West Darfur, affecting internally displaced persons and returnees in particular, and deterring further returns. On 17 June, a group of Beni Halba clashed with Zaghawa returnees over a land dispute in the Kurti farming area, north-west of El Geneina, leaving at least 10 people wounded. Government forces intervened to restore calm. On 25 July, Fallata and Salamat armed men clashed near Nadeif and Dangol villages, west of Buram, leading to the death of two Fallata and three Salamat men. Government forces were deployed to Nadeif to prevent an escalation of violence but another Salamat man was killed two days later. On 9 August, a group of nomads clashed with Fur farmers at Hebry village, near Feina in eastern Jebel Marra. Four people were killed, an unconfirmed number were injured and over 100 head of livestock were stolen. Villagers fled to the mountains, with a number seeking refuge at the Hashaba internally displaced persons camp. Communities expressed concern that incidents of harassment could increase during the harvest season if appropriate measures were not taken to mitigate them, and there were reports of internally displaced persons being prevented from returning to their villages of origin to prepare for the farming season in West, South and East Darfur.

Violence against civilians and human rights violations

10. The security situation continued to improve across Darfur outside the Jebel Marra area during the reporting period, aided by the deployment of Government security forces associated with the arms collection campaign, as well as efforts by the Government and UNAMID to promote the peaceful resolution of intercommunal disputes. Nevertheless, there were mounting concerns over farm destructions, land occupation, livestock theft and, generally, over harassment, attacks against internally displaced persons and criminality. Displaced persons in camps in Central, East and South Darfur expressed concerns for their security and reported being intimidated by the presence of armed persons in the camps. Weaknesses in the rule of law institutions in Darfur continue to be exploited by criminals, posing a significant challenge to the security of persons and property.

11. The overall human rights situation in Darfur remained fragile. Attacks against civilians, in particular against internally displaced persons, including women and children, continued, albeit on a slightly lesser scale, in an environment of impunity. There has been a reported decrease in human rights incidents during the reporting period. There were 134 cases of human rights violations and abuses involving 304 victims, including 35 minors, documented during the period, as compared with 169 cases involving 508 victims, including 66 minors, during the period from 16 February to 10 June 2018, the period covered by S/2018/389 and S/2018/612. Violations of the right to life accounted for 31 cases involving 72 victims; violations of the right to physical integrity (assault) accounted for 48 cases involving 120 victims; arbitrary arrests and illegal detention accounted for 9 cases involving 13 victims; and abductions accounted for 8 cases involving 11 victims. UNAMID confirmed the occurrence of 55 cases of human rights violations and abuses involving 115 victims, while the remaining 79 cases, involving 189 victims, are yet to be verified. Of the 134 cases received, 39, involving 100 victims, were reportedly perpetrated by the Sudanese Armed Forces, Military Intelligence, National Intelligence and Security Services and the Rapid Support Forces. Furthermore, 23 cases involving 26 victims were reportedly perpetrated by male civilians, while 70 cases, accounting for 173 victims, were allegedly perpetrated by armed men, often described as Arabs. Two cases involving five victims were attributed to SLA-AW. The authorities arrested 15 suspects in 48 reported cases, but none had been prosecuted at the time of writing. Documented cases do not necessarily reflect actual numbers of violations, owing to access restrictions, as well as low and delayed reporting of cases for fear of reprisal.

12. Sexual and gender-based violence remained a serious concern and restricted women's freedom of movement in areas of return, as well as around internally displaced persons camps, where venturing outside the camps for farming, firewood or water exposes them to risk. There were 38 cases of sexual and gender-based violence documented by UNAMID, including conflict-related sexual violence in the form of rape involving 88 victims, including 24 minors. Incidents of sexual violence generally remain underreported.

13. There were 44 incidents of grave violations affecting 80 children (34 boys; 46 girls) documented by UNAMID during the reporting period, as verified by the country task force on monitoring and reporting. A total of 29 children were killed (13 girls; 16 boys); 20 children were maimed (6 girls; 14 boys); 4 boys were abducted; 22 girls were raped; and 13 schools were affected in Jebel Marra, including 7 schools that were looted and 6 others destroyed.

14. The reporting period witnessed a moderate decrease in crime against internally displaced persons as compared with the previous. They were targeted in 181 crime-related incidents, which led to 27 fatalities. Other civilians were affected by 376 crime-related incidents, resulting in 61 fatalities, including cases of murder (46), armed robbery (41), attempted robbery (10), assault/harassment (124), burglary/break-in (25), looting (1), abduction (8), arson (2), shooting (73), attack/ambush (7), threat (7), others (14), and livestock theft (18). In the previous three-month period, internally displaced persons and other civilians were affected by 180 and 325 crime-related incidents, respectively, resulting in the deaths of 34 internally displaced persons and 91 other civilians.

III. Political situation

15. Following its approval of a new draft electoral law on 11 June, the Council of Ministers of the Sudan submitted the draft to the parliament for further deliberations in October. While the ruling National Congress Party and its affiliates welcomed the draft, stressing its criticality for the conduct of free and fair elections in 2020, many opposition political parties rejected the amendments contained in the document, arguing that the process was not inclusive and lacked the consent of various political interests. On 11 August, the President, Omer al-Bashir, accepted the nomination of his party's high consultative body, the Shura Council, to be its candidate in the 2020 elections. Prior to this, the Council had amended the party's statutes by removing presidential term limits. Opposition parties and some critics within the National Congress Party opposed the move, pointing out that it violates the constitutional provision for only two five-year presidential terms. On 19 August, the opposition coalition, Sudan Call, concluded a meeting in Paris by issuing a statement pledging to carry out an international campaign against the re-election of President al-Bashir in 2020.

16. On 13 September, a new cabinet of 20 ministers was announced. The Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Defence and Presidency Affairs retained their positions, while, notably, Mutaz Musa Abdalla Salim, the former Minister for Water Resources, Irrigation and Electricity, was appointed Prime Minister and Finance Minister. Second Vice-President Hassabo Mohamed Abdul-Rahman, a member of the Rizeigat ethnic group from Darfur, was replaced by Osman Mohamed Yousif Kibir, former Wali of North Darfur and a member of the Berti ethnic group. At the regional level, President al-Bashir, on behalf of the Intergovernmental Authority on Development, convened peace talks between the President of South Sudan, Salva Kiir, and opposition leader Riek Machar in Khartoum. Following negotiations, on 12 September the parties signed the final text of the revitalized peace agreement in Addis Ababa.

17. On 19 September, the African Union Peace and Security Council met to discuss Darfur. In a communiqué issued following the meeting, the Council decided to seriously consider taking action against those who continued to obstruct efforts towards lasting peace and security. It also demanded that SLA-AW and its leader, Abdul Wahid, together with other non-signatory movements, “finalize their ongoing negotiations and join the peace process by December 2018”, warning that “failure to do so will lead to strict measures being taken by the Council”.

IV. Humanitarian situation

18. Food insecurity continued to be of concern, with the economic crisis and government austerity measures leading to basic food items such as bread being in limited supply in Darfur. This was compounded by the impact of severe dry weather that began at the end of 2017 in North Darfur, and parts of East, West and South Darfur. People living in these states were classified as being in “crisis” (Integrated Food Security Phase Classification phase 3) until September 2018. Initial results of the mid-season assessment indicate that average to above-average rainfall will likely improve the harvest. High inflation has also affected the capacity of service providers and impacted coping mechanisms for internally displaced persons.

19. The onset of heavy rains in other parts of West, South, Central and North Darfur resulted in civilian displacement and destruction of homes and assets. In August alone, heavy rains destroyed many structures in North Darfur, including in Zam camp, where about 2,300 people in one school and the local market were affected. The Government-led Flood Task Force was activated and coordinated a response. Humanitarian partners and the State Ministry of Health provided non-food items. In anticipation of a potential increase in water-borne diseases, partners worked with the Ministry of Health to preposition medicines and medical supplies and undertook capacity-building of medical personnel.

20. The International Organization for Migration registered 11,026 internally displaced persons in South Darfur who had fled fighting between government forces and SLA-AW in eastern Jebel Marra, while 3,010 internally displaced persons were registered in Central Darfur. Verification is ongoing for approximately 5,600 people who reportedly arrived in Golo, (central Jebel Marra), Nertiti, Karo and Thur (western Jebel Marra) and Deribat (eastern Jebel Marra), due to the fighting in the area. This includes some 1,100 people displaced in mid-June into the Golo area, where local authorities have since identified land for relocation. Since January, approximately 14,026 people verified by humanitarian actors have been displaced into various camps and settlements in and around Jebel Marra in South and Central Darfur. In Leiba, eastern Jebel Marra, verification was ongoing for 1,600 newly arrived people. Accessing some areas in Jebel Marra remained a challenge owing to insecurity, compounded by heavy rains which made most roads impassable.

V. Operating environment

Attacks and threats of attacks targeting African Union-United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur, United Nations and humanitarian personnel

21. A total of 60 criminal incidents targeting the United Nations and humanitarian personnel were recorded during the reporting period, 46 of which were incidents of intrusion, break-in and theft inside United Nations premises. On 16 July, a UNAMID military personnel was shot and injured by an unidentified armed perpetrator attempting to enter the UNAMID Community Policing Centre in the Salam internally displaced persons camp in South Darfur. On 19 July, Sudanese Armed Forces personnel reportedly assaulted and injured three national staff of the International Medical Corps at Golo Hospital in Central Darfur over an alleged delay in attending to injured Sudanese Armed Forces soldiers. On 5 August, six unidentified perpetrators attempted to stab a member of UNAMID police personnel on patrol at Otash internally displaced persons camp in South Darfur. On 14 September, eight perpetrators fired shots at an observation tower at Nyala “super camp” after attempting to enter the premises. On 12 September, a national staff member of the international non-governmental organization Triangle Generation Humanitarian was abducted, assaulted, robbed and later released by SLA-AW elements in Golo in Central Darfur.

Access restrictions

22. The Government of the Sudan denied access for UNAMID patrols on 18 occasions, mostly citing security reasons. In most cases, the patrols were prevented from verifying reports of conflict in the Jebel Marra area. Access denials were mostly confined to conflict areas in eastern and southern Jebel Marra, with UNAMID verification patrols denied access to the Feina, Gur Lumbung, Kebe, Leiba and Narglah areas. Verification patrols to Golol in western Jebel Marra were repeatedly denied access, on 6, 19 and 29 July.

23. UNAMID did not record any flight denials during the reporting period. The Government has not yet approved the mission’s request for direct flights between team sites in different sectors.

24. The mission leadership engaged the Government of the Sudan and local authorities during the reporting period to address the issue of access denials. UNAMID sent a series of notes verbales to the Government requesting its intervention, and the African Union-Joint Special Representative for Darfur held meetings with local and national authorities.

Visas and customs clearance issues

25. Since 11 June 2018, the Government granted 462 visas, including 28 for military personnel, 136 for police personnel, 87 for official visitors, 190 for contractors, 19 for civilian staff and 2 for dependants. A total of 82 visa requests are still being processed, while 121 visa requests have been pending beyond the normal approval period of 15 days, some since April 2017. The Government continues to release food ration containers from Port Sudan. While progress has been recorded in clearing other shipments, nine shipments of contingent and United Nations-owned equipment remain pending. In June 2018, the Government communicated the new tax exemption procedures, according to which the Government will grant Sudan Sea Ports Corporation letters of exemption on a case-by-case basis.

26. UNAMID held technical meetings every month with the Government in Khartoum to tackle pending issues related to visas and clearance of containers. The Government of the Sudan pledged to cooperate with the mission in addressing these matters and requested to be kept abreast of new developments, both on a case-by-case basis and through periodic review meetings. These issues were also reiterated on 29 September in New York at the 26th meeting of the Tripartite Mechanism comprising representatives of the Government of the Sudan, the African Union, the United Nations and UNAMID. The Tripartite members undertook to continue cooperation in the issuance of visas and facilitation of movement in Darfur to enable UNAMID to effectively discharge its mandate.

VI. Progress towards the achievement of the strategic priorities of the mission

Protection of civilians

27. UNAMID integrated field protection teams conducted a total of 120 patrols in North, West, Central and South Darfur. In North Darfur, the main protection issues identified included harassment of farmers and land occupation reportedly attributed to armed nomads or other unidentified armed men. Community leaders expressed concerns over increased tensions between farmers and herders during the harvest season due to crop destruction by livestock. UNAMID continued to urge community elders to engage constructively with nomad leaders on ways to address the issue of crop destruction and to work together towards the promotion of dialogue and peaceful coexistence. Access restrictions continued to hamper UNAMID monitoring and reporting efforts, making it difficult to independently verify incidents in the conflict areas of the Jebel Marra, including human rights-related incidents and allegations by internally displaced persons against Government security forces.

28. In West Darfur, teams were informed of similar protection challenges. In Nuri village area, the community reported an increased presence of armed settlers harassing and intimidating internally displaced persons from Sisi camp. UNAMID has raised the issue with authorities.

29. In South Darfur, the team visited Digras return village on 16 July, following reports of an attack, which had caused the death of the Umda (traditional chief) and his wife. Returnees reported seven incidents during the previous four months, including cases of assault, intimidation, land occupancy and vandalism. The mission continued to advocate with them to create conditions for effective returns and peaceful coexistence between communities.

30. UNAMID uniformed personnel provided 255 round-trip escorts for humanitarian partners in support of the delivery and monitoring of humanitarian assistance, as well as inter-agency verification assessments and operational activities. In addition, UNAMID continued to provide daily escorts to partners for water-trucking from Kube to the Sortony internally displaced persons gathering site, as well as regular armed escorts for humanitarian supplies between Sortony and Kabkabiyah in North Darfur. UNAMID also provided security for the warehouses and assets of humanitarian agencies. Escorts were provided for humanitarian partners in July to undertake needs assessments in Belle el-Sereif, Leiba, and Mershing, eastern Jebel Marra, where the most critical needs were identified as health, protection and the provision of water, sanitation and hygiene services. Additionally, an inter-agency assessment undertaken in Thur, in western Jebel Marra, suggested that food, shelter and non-food items were the most urgent needs. In Belle el-Sereif, medical services were insufficient, and water and sanitation conditions were poor. In Leiba and Mershing, in eastern Jebel Marra, health facilities and equipment were found to be lacking. While humanitarian partners were able to undertake inter-agency assessments in some areas, insecurity prevented visits to others affected by ongoing armed clashes.

31. On 22 September, after being delayed for several days due to security concerns, road conditions and mechanical problems, a joint team comprising UNAMID and the United Nations country team completed an assessment of the Tagulei area of South Darfur, where civilians were affected by landslides resulting from heavy rains on 7 September. Humanitarian assistance was provided, and the team confirmed that 16 people had been killed and 4 remained unaccounted for.

32. The UNAMID military component conducted a total of 13,554 patrols, of which 5,283 were for the protection of civilians (3,452 short-range patrols, 299 long-range patrols and 1,532 night patrols). Protection of UNAMID personnel and equipment patrols totalled 7,834 (6,810 routine patrols and 1,024 logistics and administrative escorts). A total of 3,067 visits to villages and 1,768 visits to internally displaced persons camps were conducted during the reporting period. UNAMID police conducted 4,496 patrols, including 1,449 for confidence-building to internally displaced persons camps and 530 for firewood and grass collection, 309 to markets, 1,317 to villages, 714 to towns, 119 to areas of return and 58 to migration routes to respond to the security needs of internally displaced persons, in particular women and children engaged in livelihood activities outside the camps. Formed police units also provided 27 humanitarian escorts to Kalma, Dereige and Otash internally displaced persons camps in South Darfur and Zalingei in Central Darfur.

33. UNAMID continued to engage State authorities on the necessity of ensuring a protective environment and access to justice for vulnerable groups, especially displaced communities, returnees, women and children. The mission undertook 54 monitoring visits to internally displaced persons camps, 15 field missions, 21 visits to places of detention, including trial observation on fair trial standards in 10 cases and 36 follow-up exercises on previously reported cases. The mission also participated in 103 external advocacy meetings with government authorities, local communities and civil society partners, conducted four workshops for prosecutors, including the Special Prosecutor for Crimes in Darfur, on conflict-related sexual violence, and conducted three human rights promotional and outreach activities in local communities.

34. Explosive ordnance remained a concern in Darfur, with four incidents reported in which one person was killed and four were injured. UNAMID continued to address the threats posed by explosive remnants of war through surveys, clearance and disposal tasks. Such operations were conducted in 164 villages across Darfur where mine action teams cleared 48 hazardous areas, located and safely destroyed 1,835 items of unexploded ordnance and disposed of 598,160 rounds of small arms ammunition. In addition, the mission conducted explosive remnants of war risk-awareness training for 34,942 persons, comprising 6,777 men, 6,469 women, 12,354 boys and 9,342 girls, focusing on internally displaced persons in Korma, Golo and Kass, as well as those recently displaced during the fighting in Jebel Marra. Income-generating resources were provided to 30 victims of explosive remnants of war.

35. The mission welcomed the Government's willingness to adopt a framework of cooperation with the United Nations on conflict-related sexual violence under Security Council resolution 2429 \(2018\) and to discuss the issue, as well as human rights in general, with the United Nations to guide future support for national authorities to enhance prevention and response measures. In a positive development for accountability, a member of the Sudanese Armed Forces personnel who was on trial in El Geneina, West Darfur, for the rape of a 15-year-old girl in January 2018, was convicted on 6 September and sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment.

36. From 4 July to 2 August, UNAMID, in collaboration with the Sudan Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Commission and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), supported the demobilization of 1,190 ex-combatants, including 336 women, in El Geneina. The Darfur Ceasefire Commission verified former combatants from West and Central Darfur from movements that had signed the Darfur Peace Agreement and those that had acceded to the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur.

37. Following the Government's completion of the March 2016 action plan to end and prevent the recruitment and use of children, its security forces were delisted from the annexes of the Secretary-General's annual report on children and armed conflict. This important achievement reflects the commitment made by the Government of the Sudan to prevent and end violations against children by its security forces and to build national protection systems for children. However, three non-signatory movements, JEM-Gibril, SLA-AW and SLA-MM, remain listed in the report of the Secretary-General. During the reporting period, UNAMID conducted child protection capacity-building and training sessions benefiting 769 targeted host community members.

38. Pursuant to its mandate to strengthen rule of law in Darfur, the mission trained 30 rural court judges in North Darfur to enhance their capacity to mediate and resolve intercommunal conflicts, including land disputes, resolve a greater number of disputes and produce higher quality decisions. The mission also organized five training sessions on trial monitoring for non-governmental organizations and civil society to enhance their capacity to monitor trials at the Special Court for Darfur Crimes. The mission handed over 12 vehicles, which were distributed to the state prosecution offices and to the Special Prosecutor in Darfur to enable them to service remote areas. In collaboration with the State Directorate of Prisons and Reform, UNAMID provided two six-week training programmes for 180 prison officers on prison operations and a human rights approach to prison management with a focus on the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners (the Nelson Mandela Rules). UNAMID, in collaboration with the General Directorate of Prisons and Reform and El Fasher University, provided a one-month train-the-trainers course on teaching methodology for 20 prison officers, including 6 women. The mission also hosted a meeting of the United Nations Rule of Law Coordination Group for Darfur to enhance coordination between UNAMID and the United Nations country team in Darfur in line with the transition concept.

39. In collaboration with the Sudanese Ministry of Social Affairs, the mission also organized five workshops to revive the state committees for combating gender-based violence. In West Darfur, UNAMID sensitized 10 members of the Sudanese Armed Forces, the Sudan Police Force and community leaders on the role of the military and police in preventing sexual and gender-based violence. The mission reiterated the need for exempting rape survivors from the need to complete a form at police stations, in order to facilitate speedy medical attention and legal redress.

Support for the Darfur peace process and the implementation of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur

40. The stalemate persisted in the Darfur peace process, with little progress reported. The Joint Special Representative continued to engage with the Government of the Sudan and the non-signatory movements in support of the African Union High-level Implementation Panel, focusing on achieving a pre-negotiation framework which would facilitate the signing of a cessation of hostilities agreement and the resumption of political negotiations. On 9 July, the Joint Special Representative held a meeting with the Envoy of the Presidency for Negotiation and Diplomatic Communication on Darfur File, Amin Hassan Omer, at which it was recommended that the Joint Special Representative develop a reformulated text for the framework, after an earlier text was not accepted by the movements in May. In conveying the new text to the parties, the Joint Special Representative stressed the urgent need to complete the pre-negotiation stage and begin earnest discussions on substantive issues in line with the road map. From 13 to 14 August, the Joint Special Representative participated in a meeting of the African Union High-level Implementation Panel in Addis Ababa, to assess the state of the mediation process and develop a way forward regarding the engagements with the movements in the light of the African Union Peace and Security Council deliberations on the peace process.

41. On 31 August to 1 September, the Joint Special Representative attended a meeting organized by the Berghof Foundation in an effort to overcome the difficulties in the pre-negotiation agreement, after which the Joint Special Representative proposed another text to the movements. In their response, the movements stated that the current text watered down their demands for the creation of new and independent implementation mechanisms and therefore suggested reverting the text suggested by the Joint Special Representative in June 2018.

42. The implementation of the Doha Document continued at a slow pace. The Voluntary Return and Resettlement Commission in Central Darfur visited all localities in the state except for Golo and Rockero, assessing the situation, including needs. In South Darfur, the Commission conducted field surveys in 180 out of 232 villages to verify areas of voluntary return and identified 17 villages requiring immediate response. The Darfur Land Commission is in the process of establishing information and data centres in the five Darfur states and Khartoum, equipped with information on land use and suitability, water resources and socioeconomic conditions, among other things. The Commission has already received some of the database equipment for these centres through funding from UNDP, with the expectation that the rest of the equipment will be installed and its staff trained by December 2018.

43. At its thirteenth session in Doha, Qatar, on 11 July, the Implementation Follow-Up Commission of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur concluded that there was a need to reinvigorate the implementation of the outstanding issues of the Document. It recommended that, in addition to convening regular meetings, UNAMID coordinate a meeting of all Follow-Up Commission partners for a review of the implementation modalities of the Doha Document before the next meeting, scheduled for November 2018. The meeting participants also made a strong appeal to the international community for support for stabilization and development in Darfur. In that regard, they urged UNAMID, the United Nations country team, the European Union and the Department for International Development of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to undertake a review of the Darfur Development Strategy with the goal of aligning its objectives with residual issues in the Doha Document. The review is under way.

Mediation of intercommunal conflict

44. UNAMID pursued mediation initiatives focused on early warning, preventive measures, capacity-building and efforts to address the root causes of conflict in collaboration with government authorities, the United Nations country team, community leaders and other relevant institutions. In support of efforts to prevent seasonal communal conflicts and to ensure a successful farming season, UNAMID held 13 meetings in North, Central and West Darfur with the native administrations, peaceful coexistence and agricultural protection committees, farmers and nomadic herders, local authorities and community leaders.

45. The mission provided support and monitored several local peace initiatives. In South Darfur on 9 July, the Masalit and the Fallata signed a peace agreement in Bulbul Tembisco in the presence of the Wali of South Darfur, with logistical and technical support from UNAMID. However, the land issue was not addressed. The communities agreed to allow the resolution of land issues to be led by the state authorities.

46. In East Darfur, the Deputy Nazir of the Ma'aliya informed UNAMID of a meeting between the Vice-President of the Sudan, Hassabo Mohammed Abdul Rahman, and Ma'aliya and Rizeigat leaders in Ed Daein on 24 July to discuss the resumption of the reconciliation process. Leaders expressed their willingness to resolve ongoing land issues. UNAMID continued to engage the leadership of both groups to encourage a peaceful resolution.

47. The mission provided technical support to human rights and transitional justice mechanisms aimed at strengthening local institutions and enhancing the capacity of state governments to protect civilians and promote human rights. On 3 September, UNAMID, UNDP and the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission jointly organized a stakeholders' meeting on the transitional justice programme, which provided an opportunity to strengthen the mandate of the Transitional Justice Working Group, created in January 2016 to provide technical support to the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission. A workshop in El Fasher on understanding conflict-related sexual violence and the related legal framework gathered prosecutors from all five Darfur states, including the Special Prosecutor for Crimes in Darfur.

48. In collaboration with the Ministry of Social Welfare, UNAMID trained 135 women leaders on mediation and negotiation. UNAMID continued to advocate for the inclusion of women in native administrations, peaceful co-existence committees and other decision-making bodies, in line with Security Council resolution 1325 \(2000\).

49. UNAMID also conducted workshops and dialogue forums in West, North and South Darfur. In West Darfur, the mission conducted four workshops, including one on conflict resolution and reconciliation on 8 and 9 July and three on good governance on 11, 17 and 30 July. The workshops were attended by 200 representatives, including 37 women, and were aimed at enhancing the capacity of community leaders to resolve conflicts, promoting peaceful coexistence, encouraging the participation of women and teaching good governance principles. UNAMID also organized a community dialogue forum on 8 August in Aish Bara return area, West Darfur, which was attended by 70 participants, including 40 women. Recommendations included the rehabilitation of migratory routes and water dams, dialogue and workshops on conflict resolution and the empowerment of peace and reconciliation committees.

50. UNAMID conducted five peace forums in North Darfur on 25 June, 27 June and 2 July and in South Darfur on 4 and 9 July, which were attended by 514 participants, including 35 women. It was agreed that priority should be placed on mitigating tensions and conflicts, including through outreach and dialogue forums, an inclusive arms collection campaign, the demarcation of livestock migratory routes and the implementation of community stabilization projects. Participants emphasized the need for the Government to comprehensively address land issues and enforce the rules governing the farming and migratory seasons.

VII. Implementation of the reconfiguration of the mission

Peacekeeping concept

51. A new mission concept was finalized to guide the mission's efforts under the new mandate and will inform the revision of the military concept of operations, the police concept and the support concept. Integrated planning to implement the closure and handover of team sites, redeployments and troop repatriations directed in the new mandate are under way, in consultation with the Government of the Sudan, the affected troop-contributing countries and other stakeholders. An integrated plan for the units identified for repatriation or relocation has been finalized and orders have been issued to meet the mandated timelines.

52. Based on the authorized strength of 2,500 personnel, an analysis undertaken by the police division determined the breakdown of the police component into 760 individual police officers and 1,740 officers serving in 11 formed police units operating out of mission headquarters, in State Liaison Functions in four Darfur state capitals, in the Khartoum office and the team sites. Adjustments were made to the distribution of individual police officers in order to allow for an increased number at each team site. Those adjustments will come into effect once team sites outside of the new area of deployment are closed. The deployment of individual police officers to Golo has already been undertaken. As part of the analysis, the numbers for each formed police unit were adjusted based on the deployment plan. Communication in that regard was initiated with respective police-contributing countries through the Police Division. The reinforcement of the units will be realized through regular rotations.

53. Following approval by the Fifth Committee of commitment authority for the UNAMID budget until 31 December 2018, a revised budget submission is currently being prepared for the first six months of 2019. The budget submission will reflect, among other changes, planned staffing reductions and the closure of super camps and team sites outside of the greater Jebel Marra area, which are to take effect on 1 January 2019. In line with the new mandate, a reduction of more than one third of the current civilian personnel positions has been proposed in the revised UNAMID budget for 2018/19 and is awaiting approval.

Transition concept

54. As part of the transition concept endorsed by the Security Council in its resolution 2429 (2018) and the African Union Peace and Security Council in its communiqué of 11 June 2018, UNAMID staff members are to be co-located in the offices of the agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations country team in the capitals of North, South, East and West Darfur states. Discussions have been held with the United Nations country team on these state liaison functions, and staffing arrangements have been made in order to boost the capacity of the country team in line with the needs they have expressed in the four jointly identified priority areas laid out in the mandate.

55. The transition concept endorsed in the new mandate highlights the critical role of resources for the successful transition of UNAMID, as well as for supporting the role of the Government in maintaining security gains. The mission and its partners have the challenge of overcoming the chronic funding and personnel shortfall that the United Nations country team has increasingly faced as Darfur has moved out of the global spotlight. With that in mind, the United Nations and the African Union are pursuing a strategy to increase the visibility of the transition and highlight the crucial importance of funding for preventing relapse into conflict. On 28 September, a high-level event was held during the seventy-third session of the United Nations General Assembly, co-chaired by the Deputy Secretary-General and the African Union Peace and Security Commissioner. The event brought together representatives of existing and potential donors, the Government of the Sudan, the mission and the United Nations country team, with participants expressing support for the transition concept, underscoring the critical need for appropriate funding, and considering the creation of a “Group of Friends of the Transition in Darfur”. The high-level event is to be followed up with a pledging conference to give donors the opportunity to commit to financial support.

Benchmarks and indicators for the exit of the mission

56. Following the recommendation contained in the special report of the Chairperson of the African Union Commission and the Secretary-General of the United Nations on the strategic review of UNAMID (S/2018/530) for an exit of the mission on 30 June 2020 and its liquidation by December 2020, the Security Council, in paragraph 53 of its resolution 2429 (2018) requested that a detailed and clearly benchmarked exit strategy be included in the present report. In line with the Council’s request, provisions of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur could serve as the basis for indicators of achievement for the exit of UNAMID, as well as existing mission benchmarks, as adjusted and presented in annex I to my report of 15 April 2014 (S/2014/279). Additionally, the Council requested a particular focus on those benchmarks and indicators for which the Government of the Sudan has responsibility, with specific attention to the areas of protection of civilians, security sector reform, rule of law, durable solutions and human rights. In the meantime, the mission’s strategic priorities, as redefined in paragraph 11 of Council resolution 2429 (2018), constitute the overall framework against which progress will be measured.

57. The new set of indicators reflects the positive changes in the security situation in Darfur and political developments in Sudan since 2014, when UNAMID benchmarks and indicators were most recently adjusted. While the Government of the Sudan is in control of most of the territory, and the reach of the State institutions is extended across Darfur, the role and footprint of UNAMID have decreased considerably. Against this background, while the mission is drawing down and preparing for its exit in the next two years, the proposed indicators of achievement are intended to be (a) Government of the Sudan-centred, (b) measurable and (c) realistic in terms of time frame.

58. As underlined in my letter dated 30 August 2017 addressed to the President of the Security Council (S/2017/747), the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur laid the ground for a number of institutional and legislative reforms, and political and security arrangements, which, if implemented in a sustainable way, may address the main root causes of the Darfur rebellion. This forward-looking approach is underpinning the proposed set of exit indicators of achievement in the two years ahead, leading to the withdrawal of UNAMID. In this context, I would recommend that the joint African Union-United Nations strategic review of UNAMID, to be submitted to the Security Council by 1 May 2019, should also include an assessment on the implementation of the indicators of achievement set out in the present report. In addition, UNAMID should report every 90 days, as part of its periodic reporting to the Security Council, on the implementation progress.

VIII. Observations

59. It is encouraging to note that the security situation in Darfur has continued to improve as intercommunal violence and criminality decreases. This positive trend reinforces the transition concept endorsed in the new mandate for UNAMID and the United Nations country team, to focus on peacebuilding and development activities outside the Jebel Marra area and to concentrate on addressing the drivers of conflict. Much work remains to be done in this area, in particular with regard to the land issue, where the lack of a comprehensive solution continues to result in disputes over land ownership between internally displaced persons and herders who have occupied vacated lands. The issue remains a barrier to the return of internally displaced persons to their places of origin and an obstacle to peace. In order to successfully address this and other issues at the root of the conflict, it is critical to ensure that funding is available for Darfur both during the transition and in the longer term. In that regard, I urge the donor community to contribute generously towards lasting peace and sustainable development in Darfur.

60. While I am concerned that the Government of the Sudan and the non-signatory movements have yet to agree on a pre-negotiation framework, I wish to commend the mediators for their concerted efforts towards bringing the parties to the negotiation table. I call upon the parties to demonstrate commitment in reaching a final agreement on substantive issues. We must recognize that only a political settlement to the conflict will bring the people of Darfur closer to durable peace.

61. Comprehensive implementation of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur, in particular in areas relating to compensation and the return of internally displaced persons and refugees, land and other natural resources, remains crucial. It is regrettable, however, that the residual Darfur Regional Authority commissions are yet to become fully functional. The progress of their deployment has been constrained by lack of resources, both human and financial. In this regard, I urge the international community to provide adequate funding and technical support to these commissions to enable them to move forward on the critical work of the implementation of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur.

62. I remain deeply concerned about the humanitarian situation in the Jebel Marra area, resulting from the clashes between Government forces and SLA-AW. I am encouraged by the Government's decision to allow humanitarian access to rebel-held areas in the Blue Nile and South Kordofan, and I continue to urge the parties to cease hostilities and allow unhindered access to UNAMID and humanitarian actors to protect and provide assistance to the affected populations in Darfur.

63. Even as the security situation improves and UNAMID continues to draw down, we must recognize that work remains to be done with regard to the mission's peacekeeping efforts in the Jebel Marra and its transition activities focused on the drivers of conflict across Darfur. I would like to take this opportunity to call upon the Government of the Sudan to extend to the mission all the support necessary for the successful implementation of its mandate, including facilitating access for the mission and humanitarian partners to those pockets of the Jebel Marra still affected by armed conflict. I would also like to highlight the importance of the Government, the mission and other stakeholders working together in pursuit of the shared goal of ensuring a smooth and dignified return, reintegration and resettlement of internally displaced persons and refugees.

64. In conclusion, I should like to thank the Joint Special Representative, Jeremiah Nyamane Mamabolo, and all UNAMID personnel, the United Nations country team and the humanitarian community, who continue to work diligently to improve the lives of the people of Darfur. I commend my Special Envoy for the Sudan and South Sudan, Nicholas Haysom, and the former Presidents of South Africa and Nigeria, Thabo Mbeki and Abdulsalami Abubakar, of the African Union High-level Implementation Panel, for their steadfast commitment to sustainable peace and stability in the Sudan.

Annex I

Proposed benchmarks and indicators of achievement

I. The protection of civilians; monitoring and reporting on human rights, sexual and gender-based violence and grave violations against children; the facilitation of humanitarian assistance; and the safety and security of humanitarian personnel

Protection of civilians

- Sustained security for internally displaced persons in camps, temporary settlements and in areas adjacent to camps, including during livelihood activities.
- Reduction in physical attacks on civilians and internally displaced persons, especially women and girls.
- No increase in conflict-related displacement.
- Cessation of conflict-related sexual violence and grave violations against children by all parties to the conflict, including the Sudanese Armed Forces, the Sudan Police Force, Rapid Support Forces and other government-affiliated forces. 90-day update
